

Lions Quest Testimonials

"I have to say the Lions Quest seminar was the best educational training I've ever taken part in. Not only did I learn more about my students and their needs, but I also learned a lot about myself. The seminar was informative, exciting, fun, and really broadened my horizons."

- *Irmgard Teich, Teacher, Germany

"Experience has shown that Lions Quest doesn't just lay the foundation for "Skills for Adolescence" in a classroom setting, but it also enriches the teacher-student relationship.

- *Martin Flittner, Berthold-Gymnasium Freiburg, Germany

"The course respects the motivations and needs of the students, the need for a safe class climate of active listening that helps them develop both learning and social skills. Teachers implementing the program could observe the following results: children have a better knowledge of themselves and others; feel part of their classes; are more curious and involved; can think critically and can better express their emotions."

- *Anna Maria Garetini, scholastic director, Oriolo Frezzotti Elementary School, Latina, Italy

"[Skills for Adolescence] forms the basis of our health and social skills component of our school curriculum. It provides cooperative and coping strategies for young adolescent students moving through the turbulent growth phase of 10–13 year olds. Our students develop skills so that they can cope with everyday life and work harmoniously together in our safe school environment that the programme helps to foster. Fergusson Intermediate believes that the Skills for Adolescence programme is the most comprehensive programme available on today's market that fosters socially competent and responsible people."

- *Margaret Ulrich, principal, Fergusson Intermediate School, New Zealand

"The Trade Union of Education in Finland (OAJ) recommends the Quest program as a tool to achieve the educational goals of grade school."

- Erkki Kangasniemi, chairperson, OAJ

"Socioemotional skills support children and youth during their studies as well as later in life. I recommend the Quest program for acquiring these skills."

- *Prof. Taru Lintunen, University of Jyvaskyl, Finland

"With the measures available in the Lions Quest program, we are able to give the youth a favorable start in life."

- *Prof. Jukka Sarjala, former director-general of the National Board of Education, Finland

"Parents chose Lions Quest over English classes. Children can learn English elsewhere. Parents wanted help in teaching social and emotional skills at school."

- *Diana, director, Liudvukas Stulpinas Basic School, Klaipeda, Lithuania

"Lions Quest has encouraged children to get involved. The teachers and children have identified problems in the community. Our children are working as volunteers in community service."

- *Irma, teacher, Liudvukas Stulpinas Basic School, Klaipeda, Lithuania

"Lions Quest has lead to better communication skills. The students enjoy spending additional time with classmates to build interpersonal relationships."

- *Vilma, school psychologist, Petras Vileisis Secondary School, Kaunas, Lithuania
